The Female Missionary Intelligencer,

AND RECORD OF THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE SOCIETY FOR PROMOTING FEMALE EDUCATION IN CHINA, AFRICA, AND THE EAST.

Edited by Miss WHATELY (The Palace, Dublin).

"A most useful publication, entitled the Female Missionary Intelligencer, edited by Miss Whately, is gradually becoming better known, and is extending an interest throughout Ireland, not only in missionary endeavours generally, but more especially on the subject of female education in the East. Clergymen accustomed to hold missionary meetings will find this little periodical most suggestive, and as the yearly subscription is only 1s., for twelve numbers of the publication young persons in Sunday-schools might be encouraged to become subscribers."—Clerical Journal, July 23, 1856.

"A most interesting and useful periodical. . . . Containing most interesting details of the general operations of the Eastern Society. It is a pity that this cheap little publication is not more generally patronised, as it supplies trustworthy materials for missionary sermons, speeches, &c., and may be used beneficially in stirring up young people to make collections for the education and evangelizing of heathen females."—Clerical Journal (Second Notice), 8th October, 1856.

"As a trustworthy channel of missionary intelligence, especially in all that relates to the condition and prospects of the native women of heathen lands, its value is very great. It is remarkably well edited, and is characterised by a vein of devotional Christian feeling that is edifying and delightful. . . . This useful periodical has not the circulation it deserves. We commend it to every British mother, and trust that it will be made instrumental in exciting a general sympathy for the 250 millions of poor heathen women who are crying out to their sisters in this land, 'Come over and help us.'"—London Record, 11th February, 1857.
